

October 27, 2017

Re: WinProbe-SonoVol collaborative partnership

To whom it may concern,

We at Sonovol, Inc., have been associated with WinProbe Corporation for the last 3 years, beginning with the purchase of our first UltraVision Research Platform. WinProbe has since supported us in development of software and imaging technology on several government research grants, and their team has been most enthusiastic to participate with us on developing imaging technologies of mutual benefit. Our use of their platform has been growing by the month. Furthermore, the WinProbe team has been very responsive in providing support and custom development of their software, as we work together to develop new imaging technologies as valued commercial partners.

We have since purchased more equipment from WinProbe over the last several years, as we expand our projects, and plan on leveraging their equipment for our own production in the coming year.

Sincerely

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Ryan Gessner".

Ryan Gessner, Ph.D.

CEO, Sonovol, Inc
First Flight Venture Center
2 Davis Drive
Durham, NC 27709